Description

Perched on the hills between Sorrento and the Amalfi Coast, this restored 19th-century mansion offers something rare: genuine Italian grandeur without the stuffiness.

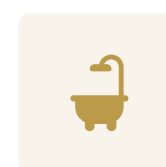

Picture this: You're sipping morning espresso on your private terrace while Capri floats in the distance and Mount Vesuvius frames the horizon. Below you, 22,000 square meters of Mediterranean gardens sprawl with lemon groves and aromatic herbs. This is Villa Anna, where 30 of your favorite people can experience the Amalfi Coast the way it was meant to be lived.

The villa's 11 bedrooms (each with its own bathroom) blend original stone arches and terracotta floors with modern comforts like air conditioning and whirlpool tubs. The master suite alone spans 60 square meters with its own outdoor jacuzzi overlooking the bay.

Outside, the private pool catches the afternoon sun perfectly. There's a tennis court tucked among the gardens. And yes, that's a helipad, because sometimes the yacht transfer fro...
